SCHOOL DAYS

Every parent, Early Childhood Instructor, and leaders in the area of child health and development all agree, the early years of a child's education are critical to future success in life.

Children who have stimulating and challenging early education experiences followed by a quality elementary education are more likely to be employed, have good mental and physical health, and avoid criminal activities.

Education is the responsibility of the parent and parents want their children's schools to support their values, standards, and desire for the best possible education. That is why many parents choose alternatives to public schools such as private, religious, or homeschools for their children. However, these options are often priced out of the range of many parents, especially in the Urban areas of our country.

One solution would be funding all forms of schooling by providing funds to parents.

The Lutheran Center for Religious Liberty advocates for Educational Freedom for parents.
